Are solar panels liable for bodily injury & property damage?

While litigation involving solar panels is sparse, the following scenario highlights the potential bodily injury and property damage claims that manufacturers, installers and disposers may face. A manufacturer establishes a processing plant in Rural Town, USA.

Can solar panels damage your roof?

Installing rooftop solar panels can damage your roof unless you work with an experienced and licensed solar installation team. Your home insurance may not cover this damage, forcing you to pay for repairs out of pocket. The only way to know for sure is to speak with your insurance agent.

Do you need insurance for solar panels?

When it comes to adding solar panels -- otherwise known as photovoltaic (PV) systems -- to your roof, most insurance companies see them as part of the structure of your home. That's good news because it means a regular homeowners policy usually has you covered, and you won't need to get special insurance just for your solar panels.

Do solar panels affect home insurance?

As with any alteration to your home, solar panels can and will change the cost of home insurance. The total cost of your homeowner's insurance is based on the value of your property. This value includes the structure of the house as well as the belongings kept inside.

What is a dedicated solar panel insurance policy?

A dedicated solar panel insurance policy is designed to provide comprehensive coverage for your solar panel system. It often offers more extensive protection than what is provided by homeowners insurance.

Does home insurance cover rooftop solar panels?

Yes, most home insurance policies do cover rooftop solar panels. By installing solar panels you are enabling your house to produce its own electricity. These rooftop solar panels are usually considered a permanent attachment to your property, similar to a patio or a security system and can, therefore, be considered a form of home improvement.
