Are solar panels a scam?

Here's how to steer clear of the scams: Do some research. Avoid solar companies that say a government program will cover the whole cost of solar panels -- or say they're from (or affiliated with) the government. These are lies. If you're looking at solar energy for your home, get quotes from reputable providers with a valid license.

How do you identify a solar panel company to avoid scams?

These tactics may include persistent calls, scare tactics, door-to-door visits, or making unfounded claims about solar benefits. Companies employing such methods prioritize sales over delivering quality service. These are the red flags to identify solar panel companies to avoid scams. Are solar leases and PPAs a scam?

No, not all leases and PPAs are scams. However, they seem to be a breeding ground for deceptive and predatory practices, including the old "government is paying people to go solar" scam. Related reading: Solar Leases vs. Solar Loans vs. Solar PPAs

How do I file a complaint against a solar panel company?

Check your state's DOJ website for information on filing a lawsuit or settling a complaint in small claims court. With this, you have learned that filing complaints against solar panel companies involved in solar scams is quite simple. Let's finally read about some cases of solar panel scams in Florida and California.

Are solar companies a bait and switch scam?

This is essentially a classic bait and switch scam. A solar company uses the premise of getting 30% off solar to get homeowners to sign a lease or PPA, and then collects it for themselves. In extreme cases, solar scammers may even pose as utility or government officials trying to promote a new or unique solar program in your area.

Can a solar company install solar panels for free?

The underlying truth is a concept known as third-party ownership, where a solar company installs panels for free, but you enter into a lease or energy purchase agreement. Be cautious of long-term contracts and escalating payments, especially in solar leases and PPAs that may last over 20 years.

Some so-called officials even say your utility company already signed you up for the program, so now you need to pay. That is, of course, also a scam. To protect yourself from clean energy ...

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. The so-called official offers you an "energy audit" to reduce your utility costs. Or they might try to sign you up for a "free"
