Do I need insurance for a solar panel system?

In most cases, there is no need to get additional insurance to cover your solar panel system. However, since solar is worth thousands or even tens of thousands of dollars and can add around $10,000 to $30,000 of value to your home, we might recommend raising your coverage limit to cover the cost of your home with the solar panel system.

Does home insurance cover rooftop solar panels?

Yes, most home insurance policies do cover rooftop solar panels. By installing solar panels you are enabling your house to produce its own electricity. These rooftop solar panels are usually considered a permanent attachment to your property, similar to a patio or a security system and can, therefore, be considered a form of home improvement.

Are solar panels covered under a homeowner's policy?

This means that as long as you own your solar panels and they are rooftop-mounted (additional policies may be required for ground-mounted systems), the system will be included under a homeowner's policy and covered in standard plans without raising your premium.

Are solar panels covered by a PPA?

If you subscribe to a PPA or lease your solar panels, a third party owns your system and is responsible for damage and maintenance. In this case, you will not be responsible for ensuring coverage, but you should talk to your lease or PPA provider before committing to make sure that any unforeseen damage will be covered.

Does a solar installation warranty cover a natural disaster?

However, most warranties do not cover what is called "Acts of God," which include natural disasters like fires, hurricanes, and the like. Your installer warranty will cover any damage that occurs to your home or solar panels during the installation process.

Do I need to insure a leased solar energy system?

Many companies offer leasing options that allow users to install a solar power system at little or no up-front cost. The important distinction is that you do not own the system. In most cases, this means that you are not required to insure a leased solar energy system or worry about upkeep.
